Düsseldorf, trade fair city: anything but one-dimensional.

The Old Town (Altstadt), Rhine promenade, Königsallee, Media Harbour – Düsseldorf could easily rest on the laurels of its many attractions. And on its high quality of life and its laid-back Rhenish nature.

Instead, the city is constantly creating new forms of urban vitality, e.g. with its Kö-Bogen by Daniel Libeskind where the Breuninger store, among others, can be found. Traditional districts are re-inventing themselves, with innovative restaurant strategies, diversified and creative retailing and a vibrant cultural scene.

Düsseldorf is a fine example of a good place to be. An excellent trade fair location. With outstanding traffic connections: a densely meshed motorway network, international airport and central railway station with links to all neighbouring countries.

Your visit to the trade fair: perfectly prepared with the EuroShop app.

Everything you need to know about the fair is available to you free of charge. Ideal for smartphone and tablet computers thanks to an offline search function.

Interactive hall plan, favourites and much more besides. And from 15 September 2016, the current, complete exhibitor database.
